

ELC SCHOLARSHIPS undergraduate

Overview

The mission of The Executive Leadership Council's (ELC) Scholarship Programs is to build a pipeline of black corporate talent by supporting the academic achievement and development of black undergraduate and graduate students.

Scholarships

The ELC offers four undergraduate scholarship programs: three are designed for undergraduate students pursuing business degrees at an accredited college or university, and one is designed for undergraduate students currently enrolled in an engineering program.

Scholarships are awarded to students who demonstrate academic excellence, leadership and commitment to community service. Additionally, scholarship recipients receive exposure and networking opportunities with ELC members through participation in The ELC's Honors Symposium.

Descriptions

Alvaro L. Martins	<ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>• Created in honor of The ELC's founding member, the first president and CEO of The Council and an alumnus of Howard University</li><li>• Open to high achieving undergraduate black male students attending one of the nation's top Historically Black Colleges and Universities (HBCUs)</li></ul>
Ann Fudge Scholars	<ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>• Named after the first woman chair of The Council and former chairman and CEO of Young &amp; Rubicam Brands</li><li>• Open to high achieving undergraduate black female students attending one of the nation's top HBCUs</li></ul>
Award for Excellence in Business Commentary	<ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>• Sponsored by The Coca-Cola Company, top undergraduate students are invited to compete in this national writing competition centered on exploring business trends, issues and insights</li><li>• Open to high achieving undergraduate black students attending a four-year college or university</li></ul>
Praxair Engineers of Tomorrow Scholarship	<ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>• Established by Praxair, Inc. to provide opportunities for minority college students pursuing careers in engineering</li><li>• Open to high achieving undergraduate minority students currently pursuing a mechanical or chemical engineering degree.</li></ul>

Honors Symposium

The Honors Symposium introduces The ELC's scholarship recipients to a wide range of business-related careers and industries to increase the number of future black business leaders. Our goal is to help fill the pipeline of black corporate executives from the classroom to the boardroom.

The Symposium is a week-long learning experience comprised of a series of events and meetings that connect and expose The ELC's scholarship winners to leading corporate executives from major global corporations. During the week, the scholarship winners participate in professional career development and enriching social activities.

Scholars begin their week in New York City where they visit global companies and engage in one-on-one meetings with senior-level executives. The scholars will visit select cultural sites and attend evening receptions and/or dinners with ELC members and other senior executives. The scholars end their Symposium experience in Washington, D.C. where they attend The ELC's Annual Recognition Gala.

ELC Scholars prepare to meet with executives at HSBC Bank in New York City.

ELC Scholars visit the 9/11 Memorial & Museum in New York City.

ELC Scholars recognized on stage at The ELC's Annual Recognition Gala in Washington, DC.

For more information, please contact The Executive Leadership Council at (703) 706-5200 or scholarships@elcinfo.com