Dear DeDe:

Shalom.

A new year, a new adventure with the Lord: ringing in 2015 in Madrid with young, Messianic believers from all over the world. At Muchan conference we learned about the history of Jewish people in Spain and were encouraged/challenged to “go viral” with the Gospel message. I was asked to lead a workshop on reaching Israeli backpackers and I asked one of our new staff—who has been on several outreach trips with me during his student years and is preparing to open a hostel to reach Israelis in South America—to lead the workshop with me. It is such a huge blessing to see so many young people who have been on our short-term mission trips move into ministry and leadership.

When I looked for an apartment in Tel Aviv, I wanted to be in a hip, central location. I was doing a bit of a test when I chose my apartment to see if I was in a destination frequented by many who live in and around Tel Aviv. Would there be lots of calls from them wanting to pop in or for me to join them out? The test proved positive, and already it is pretty constant that young Israelis I have met in India, Argentina or New Zealand Facebook or call and say, “We are here can you come play?” or “We are here, can we come up?” They often bring other friends and our fun often leads to spiritual dialogues.

It is expensive to live in central Tel Aviv...but if this keeps up—it is beyond worth it. People coming to my door spontaneously, bringing new friends and telling them, “Robin is spiritual and knows the Bible, you should hear her story”—happening in my living room or the cafe on my corner. One friend, Ami,* brought his sister Maya* who asked me, “Is it true that you believe in Jesus? Can you tell me how/why?” A really interesting conversation followed. It seems a perfect spot.

Please pray as we begin trying some new events at our new community center location. It will be great to invite people with whom we are already sharing Messiah, as well as to meet new people interested in spiritual dialogue.

Praying your 2015 has kicked off well. Update me!

Sending much thanks and prayer your way!

Robin
